& Zoom

An hour-long chat with Jonita Davis, film critic, journalist, author, and founder of The Black Cape, an online entertainment magazine for pop culture junkies. Davis will reach back into her 15-years of writing experience to offer students tips and tools for breaking into entertainment writing. Along the way, she will reveal the hurdles that Hispanic, Black, and other POC writers face in the business, followed by ways to meet and defeat these challenges head-on. The chat will also include words of encouragement and advice from a few of Davis's Hispanic friends in the business. Food and drinks will be provided at this event.
